Bee Keeping Program With Miller White

Tuesday, July 24, 2018, 7:00 pm
Ellore Heritage Museum & Cultural Center, Inc.
2714 Cleveland St, Ellore, S. C.

Miller White has been a hobby beekeeper for six years and currently has 5 beehives. He started beekeeping in hopes of an interesting hobby and one he could share with his then 8 year old grandson who showed an interest and he has not been disappointed! His hobby has grown into a multigenerational connection with his grandson who is also a certified beekeeper with hives of his own.

As a biologist, Miller is constantly amazed by the complexity and mystery of bees. He is active in two beekeeping clubs and loves to share his hobby with others.

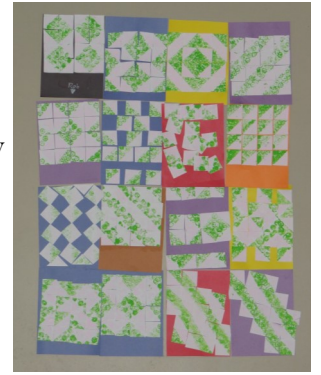

Miller is retired from a 38 year career as a fishery biologist with the South Carolina Department of Natural Resources. He studied at the University of Maine and the Citadel. Miller and his wife Barbara reside in Pinopolis and travel often to see children and grandchildren in Greenville, Colorado, and Alaska.

There is no charge for the program but reservations are required.

ART CAMP 2018

Ellore Museum's summer art camp was filled with 16 enthusiastic children ranging from 6 to 11 years old. The camp ran from 9:30 am – noon for 3 days. They were able to complete 6 individual projects and a group painting. Camp could never run without volunteers to help. The museum was so fortunate to have art teacher Amanda Shuler from Providence help teach the children. Pat McLaurin was assisted by helpers Shelly Antley, Jan Wierzbicki, and Beth Bochette. Alex Miller and Hailey Bochette served as junior assistants.

The students toured the museum and learned more about its history as many of their projects were related to exhibits displayed in the museum. They did a painting of a tenant house, stamped squares of paper to form a quilt design, and did a fun project making chickens out of paper plates. Together they helped Pat McLaurin paint a log cabin, using the impression of the finger to form the logs. It will be displayed in the museum. They also learned print making, and did a collage project. Their creativity and enthusiasm came through with each project.

Camp wrapped up with a surprise guest. Dot Shirer, one of the original museum board members and member of the Lake Marion Piecemakers Quilt Guild shared with the campers her hand-quilted miniature quilts. The campers enjoyed the stories about the quilts and learned that the Log Cabin quilt pattern had been selected, by proclamation, to be the official quilt for the Town of Ellore.

We are so grateful for each one that attended. It is a joy to share our museum with these children as they share their vibrant creative spirits with us. It is a reminder that the history we preserve at the museum is vital in many different ways to the younger generations, as well as the older.

Mr. Snider is talking about all the children walking back and forth to the Art Camp and to the Robotics Camp. Mr. Snider is also talking about the museum's quilt board located just around the corner from the railroad exhibit. Each quilt hung for display is unique and has a special story behind its creation. About every two months, a new quilt is put up. The Lake Marion Piecemakers Quilt Guild generously share their handiwork with the museum. Come and enjoy this exhibit as well as the entire museum.
